Hand Therapy

Peak Performance provides qualified hand therapists who can evaluate and treat any problem relative to the hands and upper extremities. Hand therapists have specialized training and experience with rehabilitation of these areas. They can rehabilitate the patient through preventative, non-operative, conservative or post operative treatment. Our hand therapists work closely with the physician and patient to provide the most comprehensive care. Using a specialized hand therapist will result in not only a faster recovery, but it will allow for the most complete return to previous lifestyle and function.
